DEFINE YOUR TRAVEL PROFILE 2/2

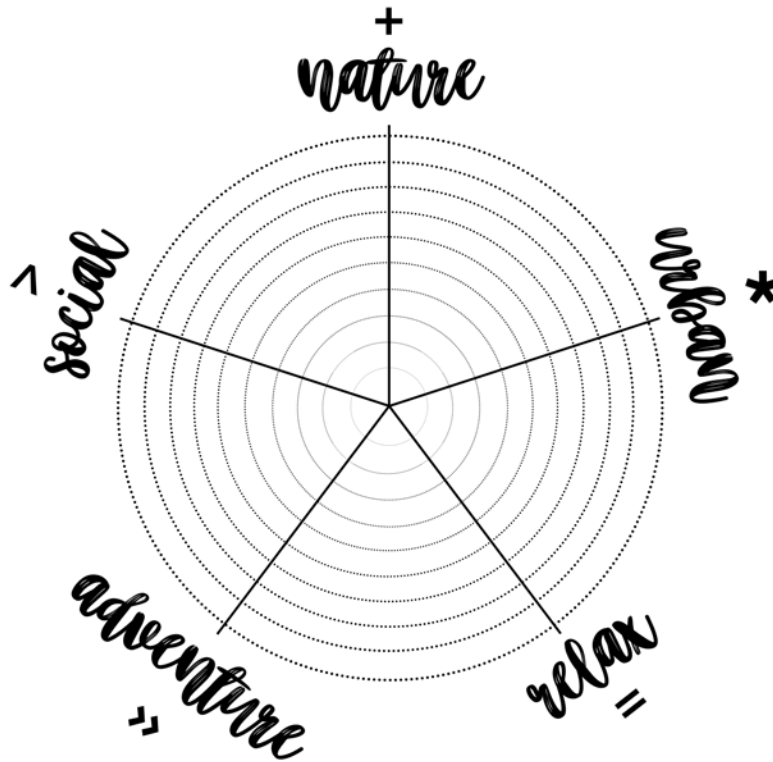

A trip is often a mix of several axes. Represent graphically your results in the diagram below to create your travel profile. Each circle represents 1 point.

For each icon, draw a point at the intersection between the black axis and the corresponding circle.

Then, connect all the points together to represent a geometric shape. You can then color the inside.

If your shape is emphasized on one or more axes, your expectations are precise. If your shape is regular, your profile is flexible.

Compare the results of your quiz with those of your travel partners. That way you can choose the right destination and define the program that suits you.

nature

Far from the bustle of civilization, you appreciate the beauty of landscapes and would like to enjoy the luxurious simplicity of silence.

Your travel pictures are mainly of landscapes, animals and plants.

Whether in the mountains, desert or underwater, you want to be amazed.

You are looking for unusual places you can enjoy to yourself.

Looking for a variety of emotions, you want to discover a region.

Staying in the same place for several days is not an option because you want to enjoy your stay intensely.

Unpacking and repacking your backpack is part of the game, as is collecting kilometers between stages.

Train, bus, roadtrip or by foot it all depends the region. And why not a tireless descent?

In search of release and well-being, you need a calm place. You don't want to organize anything during your vacation that won't be focused on you.

You aspire to have time for yourself and to do whatever you want on a daily basis.

A good book and music are your partners in this dolce farniente.

Taking care of yourself is your goal and you wouldn't say no to one or many small massages.

urban

You're looking for the dynamic and diverse activities that urban environments offer.

You like to spot trendy addresses and good restaurants. A little/a lot of shopping is part of your holiday.

As a fan of culture and outings you want to discover exhibitions, concerts or museums.

Your itinerary will pass through the best instagram spots that will highlight architecture and various lifestyles.

No matter where you are, the important thing are the people who you will share your vacation with and the memories you will create together.

On your pictures we will see people and smiles who will tell stories.

A large table to share good meals or places suitable for children are essential.

The goal: to have time to be with your family, friends or lover.
